Over 20,000 young people engaged in Cornwall's Greenpower project

6 Jun 2014

A schools project which first came to Cornwall seven years ago now has almost all of the county's secondary schools and 40% of its primary schools engaged in learning through science, technology, engineering and maths (STEM).

The nationwide Greenpower scheme, organised and run in the south west by The Cornwall College Group, gives children the opportunity to design and build electric cars, finding their own sponsors and the resources, and support, they need to make their designs a reality. Many schools now embed the project into the curriculum.

Rewriting Education and Skills in Cornwall 6 Jun 2014

The Cornwall College Group is set to unveil its vision for the future of education and skills in Cornwall, by investing £250 million into the regional economy over the next four years. The transformation of the Group, which centres on a career-led curriculum across its seven sites, in the community and in the work place, will be officially unveiled on the 12th of June at Duchy College Stoke Climland.

Amarjit Basi, Principal and CEO, said: "Since September last year, we have undertaken our biggest ever consultation – involving business, community, our learners and our staff. As a result of this, we have determined that we need to change to ensure that we are raising our game to connect our learners more closely to the current and future opportunities emerging in our local and regional economy. Working very closely with the Cornwall and Isles of Scilly Local Enterprise Partnership and Cornwall Chamber of Commerce, we are realigning our whole focus to become the Career College for Cornwall and beyond."

EVENTS: Stand Out from The Crowd Employability Course - 8th September

There's really nothing else like Stand Out from the Crowd. It focuses on helping graduates realise their potential and find a role in their chosen career.

Stand Out from the Crowd is more than just an employability course and more than a communications skills or self-awareness course, too, although it does transform both. It's a golden ticket to understanding yourself and how to ensure that understanding can land you your dream job. You will meet and learn a lot from graduates who've done just that as well as the employers who've given them the opportunity.

From CV-writing tips and interview techniques to public-speaking and presentation skills via self-awareness and self-confidence. From picking the brains of the best employers to learning from our Business Development Managers' wealth of expertise and experience: Stand Out from the Crowd is the feedback you never get.

It's free, worth £1,500 and not only is it like no other employability course, it works like no other too: within three months of completing it, most graduates secured their ideal job, of whom eight out of ten said Stand Out from the Crowd had made the crucial difference...
Talk to us and show businesses what you're made of!

10 day course, see dates of the next course below:
Week One: Monday 8th to Friday 12th September
Week Two: Monday 15th to Friday 19th September

To register your interest visit the Stand out from the Crowd page for more information or call 01326 567328 today!

Erasmus + Annual Conference 2014

On 26 and June 27, 2014 held in Bonn, the first annual meeting in the framework of Erasmus + on "The new generation of European programs: first steps, first findings" instead, to which we would like to invite already at this point.

After the first six months of Erasmus + we want to share with you. To this end, the EU Commission will make its presence felt with Jordi Curell and discuss with us and other international guests as the current challenges can be overcome, what we expect in the first year of the contract.

In workshops and on the second day of the annual meeting, we dedicate ourselves in detail the practical aspects of program management, while we want to make the discussion much detail as possible and open with you.
